Comparing Confucianism, Taoism, and Legalism!

Excerpt from the Dao De Jing, the collected teachings of the Chinese philosopher Lao Tzu (6th century BC)

Taoism
 Taoism is a naturalistic, non-theistic, and non-dogmatic philosophy. It is based on the Dao De Jing, a text attributed to Lao Tzu, a Chinese philosopher, writer, and mystic. Taoism is a naturalistic, non-theistic, and non-dogmatic philosophy. It is based on the Dao De Jing, a text attributed to Lao Tzu, a Chinese philosopher, writer, and mystic.

Confucianism
 Confucianism is a Chinese ethical and philosophical system, widely considered to have originated from the teachings of Confucius (551–479 BC). It is a system of thought and behavior that originated in ancient China and is based on the teachings of Confucius.

Legalism
 Legalism is a Chinese philosophy that emphasizes the use of laws and regulations to govern the state and society. It is based on the teachings of Han Fei Tzu, a Chinese philosopher, writer, and statesman.

Excerpt from Analects, a record of the sayings of the Chinese philosopher Confucius (551–479 BC), compiled by his students

Confucianism
 Confucius said, "Lead the people by means of government measures and regulations, and they will avoid wrongdoing, but they will have no sense of shame and shame. Lead them with virtue and regulate them by the rules of propriety, and they will have a sense of shame and, moreover, set themselves right." (Analects 2:2)

Confucianism
 Confucius said, "If a ruler sets himself right, he will be followed without his command. If he does not set himself right, even his commands will not be obeyed." (Analects 13:4)

Confucianism
 Confucius said, "When there is no deity, all things are in chaos."

Excerpt from Han Fei Tzu's explanation on why Legalism is superior to Confucianism

"When the ruler makes laws, he does not create as people doing good of themselves, but expects each emperor as will keep them from doing any evil. If he creates as people doing good of themselves, there will not be enough laws people to be numbered by the laws in the whole country. But if the emperor each emperor as will keep them from doing evil, then the entire state can be brought up to a uniform standard. (The ruler) does not have himself with morals, but with laws..."
